

I think violence on TV (and video games and other sources) negatively effects children, and even, to a lesser extent, adults, too. It de-sensitises us all. However, I do not believe it is the government's place to censor TV "for our own good." People should be able to censor themselves for something that offends them and parents should be censoring what their children see. Please do not censor violence on TV.